Modesty seems to be in the make-up of these Army and Navy coaches. Capt. Beacham of West Point, head coach, said simply that the team was fit and that he expected to see some hot football. Capt. Hyatt was little more willing to part wit his opinion.

"We are in fine shape," said he, "and we expect to win. The Navy always gives us a hard battle, but my men are ready for it."

Modesty seems to be in the make-up to they go ahead and do it? If other men are under consideration, they not let us know about that?
